Elia Esparza is a Latina pop-soul singer that has a way of melting her strong vocals in between adventurous romance lyrics and electric heartfelt songs. Her energetic personality projects through her recordings and impacts audiences during her live performances. As an El Paso, TX native, her influences from her Mexican culture along with her love of the classic diva vocalists, inspire a lot of her writing and musicality.

Esparza has also been seen on popular network shows including 'The Voice' (Team Adam Levine) and 'La Voz Mexico' (Team Laura Pausini) where she left a mark nationally for singing Selena's 'Como La Flor' in spanish and crossing over internationally with Laura Pausini who has now invited Esparza to open for her worldwide tour this fall in Los Angeles.

Esparza is currently writing and recording her EP, produced by the Grammy nominated and multi-platinum Beacon Hill Recording Studios (Khalid, Kali Uchis, and Billie Elish). She expects to release new music in the Fall 2018.
